

2011

Roundtable on Australian National Data Service

Mathew Wyatt

Australian National Data Service

Julia Gross

Edith Cowan University

Toby Burrows

University of Western Australia

Salim Taleb

Curtin University of Technology

Librarians and information technology professionals around Australia are participating in ANDS-funded data management projects aimed at building infrastructure and services to enable Australian research data to be discoverable and accessible. The Roundtable will explore local experience in implementing ANDS-funded research data management projects with a panel of speakers from the Australian National Data Service (Mathew Wyatt), Edith Cowan University Library (Julia Gross), the University of Western Australia Library (Toby Burrows) and Curtin University, Division of Information Technology Services (Salim Taleb).

The seminar will be of interest to anyone interested in the preservation and management of research data.

This Presentation is posted at Research Online.

<http://ro.ecu.edu.au/cinfosci/2>

Librarians and information technology professionals around Australia are participating in ANDS-funded data management projects aimed at building infrastructure and services to enable Australian research data to be discoverable and accessible. The Roundtable will explore local experience in implementing ANDS-funded research data management projects with a panel of speakers from the Australian National Data Service (Mathew Wyatt), Edith Cowan University Library (Julia Gross), the University of Western Australia Library (Toby Burrows) and Curtin University, Division of Information Technology Services (Salim Taleb).

The seminar will be of interest to anyone interested in the preservation and management of research data.