Open access

1. Scholarly publishing crisis
2. Open access
3. Open access and research impact
4. Copyright and open access
5. New open access requirements tied to NHMRC funding

Scholarly publication crisis

publishers

libraries

scholars

Publishers

- The big 3 provide 42% of STM journals
- Publishers
  - Provide outlet for research
  - Mediate between authors and libraries
  - Manage publication process
  - Manage peer review process
  - Ensure quality
  - Market and distribute the product

Authors

- Authors interested in
  - Creating and publicising new research
  - High citations and impact factors
  - Peer review, quality control
  - Career, academic promotion, tenure
  - Retaining copyright
- Authors value open access
  - Authors write for free but pay to obtain their work

Libraries

Since 1990s journals are available online

Library pays access fee to publisher for journal bundles

Licence agreements with publisher may restrict access

Library budget pressure ($5,000 – $20,000 / journal)

Journal library budget percentage increasing (80% +)

Journal price increases 33% over 5 years

Scholars

Scholars need access to publications

Scholars not affiliated with an institution lose out

Only staff/students of institution get access (not free to those outside institution)

Journals charge toll-access to articles e. g. US$30 per journal article (Elsevier)

Open access

research articles should be freely, immediately and permanently available online to anyone

Budapest Open Access Initiative (2002)

Academic Spring (The Cost of Knowledge website) 2012

Funders are mandating open Access

Benefits of open access

Free access to scholars, worldwide
Digital preservation
Faster access (no authentication)
Stores and organises your research
Cited 25 – 250% more often
Challenges the closed publishing model
Promotes and showcases research
Discovery by Google, Google Scholar, OAIster, etc.

Open access

- Green Road OA
  - Author self archives
  - Institutional or discipline repository

- Gold Road OA
  - Publisher provides access in journal
  - Sometimes author pays fee to publisher

Publishing in an open access journal

- Directory of OA Journals (Over 7000 journals)
- Many are peer reviewed – quality is not an issue
- Sometimes author pays a fee to publish OA article in subscription journal, e.g. Wiley OnlineOpen program
  - Example: Public Library of Science (PLoS) - PLoS charges authors from $1,350 to $2,900
  - Example: BioMed Central

Research funding and OA

New NHMRC requirements for OA

> "publications arising from an NHMRC supported research project must be deposited into an open access institutional repository within a twelve month period from the date of publication."

Aidan Byrne CEO of ARC has "a particular interest" in OA talking to "a range of stakeholders and considering … the need to align changes with policies across Australia's ….higher-education funding agencies."

International topics

- U.S. Public Access Policy 2005
- U.S. Research Works Act 2011 (anti OA)
- 7,000+ researchers boycott Elsevier
- U.S. Federal Research Public Access Act 2012 (pro OA)
- The Guardian (U.K.) pro-OA article
- U.K. Finch report 2012 (supports Gold OA)

What should you do?

Know your rights as an author, e.g. copyright

Choose referee / editor assignments carefully

Publish in the OA journals in your field

Be aware of funder requirements re OA

Work in RAS will be added to the repository
