Glen Phillips: Born in Western Australia (1936) at Southern Cross, he graduated from the University of WA (BEd, Hons; MEd) and Edith Cowan University (PhD). Currently he is Director of the International Centre for Landscape and Language at ECU and an Honorary Professor. More than 45 collections of his poetry have been published in Australia and internationally. Recent books include Poems of the Wheatbelt (2016), Crouching Tigers & Hidden Dragons (2016), and Salt Lakes & Salmon Gums (2017).

The poems whisper and seduce, nudging at the reader's heart without being sentimental for all their nostalgia. DOMINIQUE HECQ

No doubt in my mind that the poems based on the author's Wheatbelt experiences are the most compelling...with their strong sense of locality and tautness of language. THOMAS SHAPCOTT

A fascinating collation of creative work...parts of the poetry manuscript are masterpieces. JOHN KINSELLA

Phillips' poems are marvellously effective, international standard works of art. In many cases the writing is weepingly beautiful. Here is evidence of a poet at the height of his poetic powers. PATRICK WEST
