CHURCHLANDS TEACHERS' COLLEGE LIBRARY

PREFACE

This small booklet is designed as a ready reference for teachers who are confronted with a problem or engaged in a particular activity in the primary school.

All books which are listed are considered useful. However, those with annotations are considered more useful in the general classroom.

We would like to thank all of the lecturers of Churchlands Teachers College who gave us encouragement and assistance in the preparation of this booklet, especially Mr David Bambach, Mrs June Hutchison, Mr Laurie McGrath, Dr L.G. McRae and Mr David Waddell.

ART AND CRAFTS

WACHOWIAK, F. and RAMSAY, T.

Emphasis Art
Scranton, Penn: International Text Book
Co., 1970.

The Superintendent of Art and Craft in Western Australia has recommended this book. It relates specifically to the primary school and contains examples, activities and materials.

WACHOWIAK, F. and
HODGE, D.

Art in Depth, 2nd ed.
Scranton, Penn: International Text Book
Co., 1971.

Art in Depth provides activities which are more complex and would be suitable for upper primary to high school levels. It is excellent for extending the artistic child.

WESTERN AUSTRALIA
EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Craft and Needle Syllabus

This book provides philosophies and objectives for teaching Art and Craft from grades 1 to 7. It is practically oriented with diagrams and photos to illustrate methods and techniques of making 3D models, weaving, needlework and other art activities. It gives some idea of the standards which the teacher could expect.

AUDIO-VISUAL EQUIPMENT

TINDALL, K., COLLINS, Bill,
REID, David.

The Electric Classroom
Sydney: McGraw Hill, 1973.

How often have you wished for a book about audio-visual aids, which in clear concise practical terms covers the whole field in an extremely readable way? The authors, all lecturers at Sydney Teachers College, have produced an excellent work which covers technical descriptions, operational characteristics, educational applications and practical suggestions. Complete range of hardware in Australian schools is covered. There is a chapter each about graphics, duplicating, sound, the overhead projector, film strips, slides and still photography, 16 mm film television and movie making in schools.

This book is a must!

CHILDREN'S LITERATURE

ARBUTHNOT, May Hill, ed.

The Arbuthnot Anthology of Children's Literature, 3rd ed.

Illinois: Scott Foresman, 1971.

An anthology of literature from many countries for all the grades in the primary school. It is excellent for the thematic teacher. It will create an interest in literature and will possibly encourage children to read more widely on their own.

HUCK, C.S. and KUHN, D.Y.

Children's Literature in the Elementary School, 2nd ed.

New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1968.

This book is helpful to the teacher who has a limited knowledge of children's literature. It gives many ideas on creative ways of introducing and presenting literature in the classroom as well as a wide selection of poems and stories.

COMMUNITY RESOURCES

Learning resources are all around us in the community. However, we sometimes need a stimulus to discover them as we tend to ignore our every day surroundings. The following books are good for browsing as they suggest many ideas for activities within and outside the classroom that will involve community resources.

Yellow Pages of Learning Resources

Cambridge, Mass: MIT Press, 1972.

An alphabetical directory to some of the people, places and processes which are the learning resources of a community. A wide range of topics is included: a locksmith, a cemetery, a garbage-man, weather forecasting, a construction site, a restaurant, a race track, etc. A guide in the form of an outline of questions to ask or a description of an actual visit is included for each topic. Emphasis is on the things we tend to take for granted (e.g. What can you learn from a tree stump? What can you learn standing on the corner? What can you learn from a child?) Written in simple English, this book may be used by children themselves. As the introduction states, "The key is to start realizing the learning potential in the people, places, and processes we encounter every day."

Learning Exchange, 1973

For subscription, write to: The Learning Exchange,
430 Waverly Road,
East Malvern, Vic. 3145.

An Australian publication which appears in monthly newspaper format with bound issues at end of year. The 1973 cumulation is particularly valuable as it has a detailed index under the following broad topics: Information Centres, Education, Arts and Crafts, Food, Games, Sport and Recreation, Housing, Media, Transport/Travel, Organisations/Services. Arrangement in each issue is in two columns: I Want to Learn, I Want to Teach. The remainder of each issue includes games, personal learning experiences, and many practical suggestions for use in the classroom or for home learning situations.

Last Whole Earth Catalogue: Access to Tools

Portola Institute/Penguin Books, 1971.

"... personal power is developing — power of the individual to conduct his own education, find his own inspiration, shape his own environment, and share his adventure with whoever is interested. Tools that aid this process are sought and promoted by the Whole Earth Catalogue."

Books, posters, films, magazines, as well as traditional tools and other manufactured products are included. Emphasis is on high quality (but low cost items) which are easily available by post. Extremely well illustrated with diagrams, photographs, and excerpts from books. Very practical and readable.

YANES, Samuel

Big Rock Candy Mountain: Resources for our Education

Portola Institute/Dell Publishing, 1971.

Similar to the Last Whole Earth Catalogue, but specifically written for teachers. Includes many useful ideas about activities and equipment to make. Book reviews, games, film reviews, poetry, photographs, diagrams and long articles on topics in education are also included. Large section on classroom materials, self discovery, education and consciousness, and educational environments. Emphasis is divided equally between practical suggestions and philosophy of education.

NOTE: None of the preceding books are designed to be read at one sitting. Instead, browse through them and go back to them frequently to gain new ideas. Supplement these books with personal contacts in the community. To find people, start with the telephone directory and contact the various information centres in your community: your local public library, the Community Development Centre, Citizens Advice Bureau, Good Neighbour Council, etc. Remember that alternative information centres are also springing up and may not be listed in the telephone directory. Finally, do not overlook older people as a community resource. Pensioners not only have a great deal of knowledge, they also have the time to share it with you. Contact local pensioners' leagues and other organisations. All in all, be alert and sensitive to the people and things around you.

CREATIVE WRITING

My Machine Makes Rainbows

Sydney: Reed Education, 1972.

This is an inspirational Australian book which gives teachers specific approaches to lessons, suitable age groups and practical examples of results.

POWELL, Brian

Making Poetry

London: Collier McMillan, 1973.

Compared to My Machine Makes Rainbows, this gives a more mechanical approach to form and content of creative writing. It could be used most effectively in conjunction with My Machine Makes Rainbows.

CHAPPLE, A.J.P.

Creative Writing Syllabus

Western Australia Education Department

This book must not be overlooked, as it provides much valuable material for the teacher.

THOMPSON, Brian, ed.

Once Around the Sun

Melbourne: Oxford University Press, 1966.

KEMPSTER, TURBNALL,
BACKHOUSE

Verse by Young Australians

Adelaide: Rigby, 1968.

Once Around the Sun and Verse by Young Australians provide examples of children's writings and contain many short poems which³ could be used to motivate children in the classroom.

Bad Deeds Gang and Other Stories

Association of Australian Teachers of English.

This is a collection of short stories, commissioned especially for Australian children.

MARSHALL, Sybil

Expression, Books 1 — 6

London: Hart-Davis, 1970.

Expression, 1 — 6, gives poems and activities for grades 1 to 7, poems of times of the year, festivals, etc.

COADY, R.J. and
NELSON, J.C.L.

Creative Writing, Books 1 – 3
London: Pergamon Press

These work-books for 8–11 year old children are cheap and well illustrated.

DRAMA

WAY, Brian

Development Through Drama

London: Longman, 1967.

This is a cheap book which provides excellent suggestions and lessons for all age groups. It looks at drama on a social and personal level and is related to other subjects.

HOGAN, Brian

A Variety of Experiences

Brisbane: Jacaranda, 1972.

A Variety of Experiences is well illustrated and sets out lessons relating one section to one idea. As the title suggests it contains a great variety of experiences and is thoroughly recommended.

DOHERTY, G.D. and

Moving into Drama

BLEAKLEY, J.A.

Huddersfield: Schofield and Simms, 1968.

Using the teacher's book (which also contains a child's book) the teacher can plan his drama in a practical step-by-step method starting at any level of the primary school.

LIGHTWOOD, D.

Creative Drama for Primary Schools

Glasgow: Blackie, 1970.

This book is orientated towards the middle and upper primary grades. It offers many practical suggestions and also is accompanied by three sets of work-cards:—Mime and Movement, Stories for Acting, and Play Making.

TYAS, Billi

Child Drama in Action

Toronto: Gage Educational, 1971.

Presenting approaches according to themes, this book is of great interest.

EDUCATIONAL AND CREATIVE DANCE

PRESTON-DUNLOP, Valerie

A Handbook for Modern Educational Dance
London: MacDonald and Evans, 1963.

A more advanced text for senior primary grades. Mrs Preston-Dunlop deals mainly with themes and the principles of Laban in her teaching of dance.

STANLEY, S.

Physical Education; A Movement Orientation
Toronto: McGraw-Hill, 1969.

An overview of movement education in schools with chapters on all aspects:—games, gymnastics, dance. The dance chapter includes lesson examples, themes and some aspects of folk dance in the primary school.

METTLER, Barbara

Materials of Dance as a Creative Art Activity
Arizona: Mettler Studios, 1960.

Materials of Dance contains themes, principles of dance and dance-making using the Mettler Method of Creativity. Students are given useful reference for building additional material into their dance lessons.

RUSSELL, Joan

Modern Dance in Education
London: MacDonald and Evans, 1958.

This book is intended to serve as a help for those beginning dance in their schools. It deals with approaches to dance, philosophy of dance, content, dance drama, dance for boys and men and the teaching of the art of movement.

MYNATT, C.V. and KAIMAN, B.D.

Folk Dancing for Students and Teachers
Iowa: W.C. Brown, 1968.

A book of dance fundamentals for the teacher of folk dance. Dance patterns (easy and intermediate) are included, with diagrams and instructions.

METTLER, Barbara

This is Creative Dance
Arizona: Mettler Studios, 1962.

A book of illustrations, photographs and ideas for the creative dance teacher.

WARNER, June, ed.

Basic Dance on a College Level
Arizona: Mettler Studios, 1956.

Basically, a book written about a workshop at the Mettler Studios covering the fundamental elements of dance. A useful book for teachers who want to enrich their dance lessons.

SPIESMAN, M.C.

Folk Dancing
Philadelphia: W.B. Saunders, 1970.

A folk dance manual giving instructions and information on folk dance formations for the teacher of dance.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION BRANCH OF DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, N.Z.

Folk Dance Manual of Directions
R.E. Owen, Govt Printer, 1963.

Complete directions and formations for a variety of folk dances from many lands.

ADDITIONAL EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

Peter Leyden's 3M's Programme — A complete music and movement programme comprising:— 28 individual lessons, on cassettes, 28 separate teacher's notes for each lesson, and accompanying music cards.

The A.B.C's Music and Dance Programmes are broadcast regularly. See A.B.C. pamphlets for recent information.

Kiwi and R.C.A. put out a large range of folk dance records which cover most folk dances in the Folk Dance Manual of Directions.

Present Office Bearers:—

President:	June Hutchison, Churchlands Teachers College.
Secretary:	Audrey Green, Library Services Branch.

The Library Services Branch should be contacted where help is needed when ordering books. Help may also be obtained from any of the above.

MATHEMATICS

It is strongly recommended that the teacher, as an individual at the school, join the W.A. Mathematics Teachers Association. Secretary: Mr Ron Gleeson, Churchlands Teachers College.

Membership entitles the school to:

- (i) Rhombus — W.A. Journal which contains suggestions for topic planning and treatment of mathematics in the primary classroom.
- (ii) Australian Maths Teachers Journal — provides articles and suggestions for implementation of various topics in the classroom, based on current thinking in the maths world.
- (iii) Use of Teachers Reference Library at the University of W.A. Maths Department. This contains many thousands of books which a teacher could peruse before borrowing or buying. These books come from all over the world and certainly provide up-to-date methods and approaches.

BIGGS, E. and
McLEAN, J.R.

Freedom to Learn
London: Addison-Wesley, 1969.

Freedom to Learn contains excellent ways for setting up activities in an Open Area situation.

TREWIN, Arthur

Project Mathematics
Melbourne: Macmillan of Australia, 1970.

Interesting activities and side lights for maths in grades 3, 4, 5, 6.

GODDARD, T.R. and GRATTIDGE, A.W.

Alpha Maths Series and Beta Maths Series
Huddersfield: Schofield and Sims, 1969.

Excellent series for the individual approach to mathematics.

The Nuffield Mathematics Series (England)

This series should be investigated by any teacher.

MUSIC

REYNOLDS, G. and CHATTERLEY, A.

A Young Teacher's Guide to Class Music
London: Novello, 1969.

This book provides general music background for the teacher who has had little experience in teaching music. It generally reviews the skill areas of music to give the teacher a suitable starting point.

HOOD, Marguerite

Teaching Rhythm and Using Classroom Instruments
New Jersey: Prentice-Hall, 1970.

The methods of teaching rhythm as outlined in this book are based upon the use of percussion instruments and provide activities for these instruments. In theory, it is aimed at the junior primary level, but would be most valuable for students in higher grades who have had little or no experience with music.

WISLER, Gene C.

Music Fundamentals for the Classroom Teacher, 3rd ed.
Boston: Allyn and Bacon, 1971.

This is an excellent source book for the teacher. It provides many traditional songs and melodies for class singing.

BERGETHON, Bjornar

Musical Growth
New York: Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 1970.

This book provides strategies of teaching skills and gives many sample lessons. It would be ideal for the teacher who has had little experience or who is reluctant to try music.

SOURCE MATERIAL

1. Books, Catalogues, Scores and Songs, etc.

The best place to obtain this type of material is:

Hall's Bookstore,
371 Bourke Street,
Melbourne, Victoria.

2. Books, Songs and Instruments.

Four recommended sources in Perth are:—

- (a) Theo's, 75 Stirling Street, Perth.
- (b) Zenith Music, Stirling Highway, Claremont.
- (c) Clef Music, 447 Hay Street, Perth.
- (d) Sheltered Workshops, Graylands.

ORAL ENGLISH

SANSOM, Clive

Speech and Communication in the Primary School

London: Black, 1965.

The material contained in this book is not graded, but could easily be done. It treats all areas of Oral English and Drama and remedial speech. Also, it gives examples, activities and lessons which can be adapted to all grades.

ELLYARD, M.B.

Fun With Speech

Sydney: Horwitz Martin, 1963.

Fun With Speech provides language games for juniors, but is mostly useful in drilling defective sounds and incorrect use of language.

SCHOENHEIMER, H. and WINCH, G.C.

I Can Touch the Sky

Brisbane: Jacaranda Press, 1973.

This is a good workbook of ideas for the teacher.

BURNISTON, Christabel

Rhymes With Reasons

Southport, Eng.: English Speaking Board, 1963.

Rhymes With Reasons is most helpful for its drill exercises in correcting defective sounds.

Personal Anthology*

An English Speaking Book, containing a collection of poems which can be compiled for any or all primary grades.

* These publications can be obtained directly from:—

English Speaking Board,
32 Rowe Lane,
South Port,

SCOTT, L.B.

Learning Time With Language Experiences for Young Children

New York: McGraw-Hill, 1968.

This is a must for the junior school teacher who needs imaginative but practical ideas and step-by-step procedures in the language arts.

SCOTT, L.B. and
THOMPSON, J.J.

Talking Time, 2nd ed.
New York: McGraw-Hill, 1966.

Talking Time features many practical ideas and techniques for listening and speaking skills in the junior school, and a detailed treatment of all speech sounds (including remedial procedures).

LOGAN, L., LOGAN, V. and PATERSON, L.

Creative Communication
Toronto: McGraw-Hill Ryerson, 1972.

This is an expensive but comprehensive presentation of practical, graded skills and techniques in oral and written communication (for children from five years to fourteen years).

FLETCHER, H. and CAGEN, P.

Speech Aids for Elementary Grades
Australasian ed.
Connecticut: Teachers Publishing Corp.,
1965.

Speech Aids for Elementary Grades is very useful for the junior school teacher and contains phonics, sounds, diagnostic approaches and techniques, lots of useful exercises, poems, rhythms, jingles.

COBBY, Maisie

We Play and Grow
London: Pitman, 1954.

This is a very useful collection of graded poems to speak, jingles to move to, and stories to play for 5, 6 and 7 year old children.

Nelson Stimulus Language Series

The most useful books in this series are:—

- (1) Magic Seasons — Teachers' Handbook
Pupils' Handbook
- (2) Multiworlds
- (3) Manspace.

These are very expensive but full of imaginative ideas, featuring the thematic approach to language. They are suitable for grades 4 to 7.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

DODD, Graham, and
MILLER, John

Physical Education, Part 1 and 2
Port Pirie, S.A.: Automatic Printing Co. Ltd.

These books analyse the components of fitness; they provide individualised tests, forms and methods of improvement. Specifically geared for the upper primary, they should be a part of every primary school staff library.

COOPER, K.H.

The New Aerobics
London: M. Evans, 1970.

This book generally analyses fitness and describes activities to improve physical fitness in the various age groups.

MORGAN, R.E. and
ADAMSON, G.T.

Circuit Training, 2nd ed.
London: Bell, 1961.

Circuit Training provides sample circuits (with and without apparatus) with diagrams and explanations of the benefits of specific activities.

READING

HARRIS, Albert

How to Increase Reading Ability, 5th ed.,
rev. and enl.
New York: McKay, 1970.

This book gives a developmental approach to reading from the readiness stage through to the adolescent stage. It is a comprehensive book which treats all aspects of reading and has been highly recommended. It should be in the staff library of the school.

SPACHE, G.D. and SPACHE, E.B.

Reading in the Elementary School, 3rd ed.
Boston: Allyn and Bacon, 1973.

Recommended by Dr. L.G. McRae.

All aspects of reading are treated in this book as well as showing how to prepare readiness tests and ways of interpreting them. It provides standard tests and the various levels for grading.

McKEE, Paul

Reading: A Programme of Instruction for the Elementary School
Houghton, Mifflin, 1966.

This should be a part of every teacher's personal library. It is based on the basal method, that is, a series of graded books and related material for reading throughout a child's life at school.

An economical source for obtaining materials is A.C.E.R. (Australian Council for Educational Research):—

Frederick Street,
Hawthorn, Victoria, 3122.

REMEDIAL READING

BOND, Guy and
TINKER, Miles

Reading Difficulties: Their Diagnosis and Correction, 2nd ed.

New York: Appleton-Century-Crofts, 1967.

This book deals with the causes of retardation, methods of diagnosis, testing, teacher-evaluation and materials and methods of remediation. This book is very highly recommended.

TANSLEY, A.E.

Reading and Remedial Reading

London: Routledge and Kegan Paul, 1967.

This book covers all aspects of reading: developmental and remedial. It is easily obtainable in Australia. It is written by a well-known reading authority in England.

STRANG, Ruth

Diagnostic Teaching of Reading

New York: McGraw-Hill, 1969.

In this book by Ruth Strang, an effort has been made to present a method of teaching reading at all levels. This approach hinges on the knowledge of the teacher in the area of diagnosis — both formal and informal. Actual forms and charts are presented, as well as functional solutions to problems in the teaching of reading.

An economical source for obtaining materials is A.C.E.R. (Australian Council for Educational Research):—

SCIENCE

and TROWBRIDGE, L.W.

The Biological Sciences
Allyn and Bacon, 1972.

An excellent book which is organized to provide the teacher with suitable procedures to reach the goals of content and process. It lists material required and possible ways of promoting investigation.

SUND, R.B., TILLERY, B.W.
and TROWBRIDGE, L.W.

The Physical Sciences
Allyn and Bacon, 1972.

This book is prepared and presented in a similar way to The Biological Sciences. It is recommended that both of these books become the personal property of every primary school teacher. They are both invaluable.

SCHOOL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION
OF NEW SOUTH WALES

How and Where Directory, 3rd ed. rev.
Sydney: 1973.

The book is a rich source of information on the availability of free or low cost educational material, chiefly pamphlets, charts, posters and booklets. Topics range from Agriculture, Ballet and Grasses to Nuclear Power, South Africa, and Zinc.

Finally, the teacher should always check with the local library for information on community resources and services.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Social Science Forum

Magazine compiled by Churchlands Teachers College, contributed to by all Teachers Colleges, students, teachers in the schools.

This magazine which is printed 3 times a year will hopefully be distributed to all schools in the State. It contains much up-to-date information on new trends in social science, book reviews, assessments of teaching kits and discussion on contentious issues in social studies generally.
