Monochords for February 2003

Andrew Burke
ANDREW BURKE

monochords for 19 February 2003

i can't throw teabags as far as i used to new growth on the lemon tree i pee on in the drought ahmad jamal plays 'autumn in new york' summer in toodyay time and tide wash up in the desert among the red geraniums a pink flower the sunsilvered water tank so white in the fullmoonlight kangaroos make a trail across our driveway / tic tac toe a blue teabag tag flies on a green grass tree a billion green leaves up and down the hillside stark white shanks of gum trees in the sunlight on their shadow side alive line of black ants hurrying fast novelists last night the full moon bleached the neighbourhood blue heeler asleep on the verandah snout pointing at the full moon not a neon in sight no traffic lights in this small town 3,000 people in the entire shire & i know six of them may you sleep the pill-less dreams of Innocence & Experience a mushroom pie lunch / dope's off the menu all birds sing / it's 10 am / such a devious day

-------

Published by Research Online, 2004