Walking: Try Valley - Watch Croft - Morvah

Lawrence Upton

Recommended Citation

This Poetry is posted at Research Online. http://ro.ecu.edu.au/landscapes/vol4/iss1/13
Walking: Try Valley -- Watch Croft -- Morvah

by Lawrence Upton

“Study has become my prayer” -Karen Armstrong passion is a large fortune pleasure of riches

harmless for catching
a prehistoric far end

clean remembered
against intended vacancy

getting uncomfortable

a serious mind busybody

incredulity and outline

impossible melancholy

appearance against conjecture light eyes of matter

finally irresolute
so intimately frank
breaking into outrage

the responsibility of large ideas fixed up

more infatuated than perplexed

following in dark time peeped out of the adventure
to a head

in touch with some situation

nothing inconceivable

nothing in concealment

a number of
existences
precipitous
open, down together and accepted

an unjustifiable intrusion in consequence

swiftly down
the moor path bringing us to small roads smashed land curving upwards incidentally truthful

in search of evidence
a fascination coldly broad

a dead body withdrawn into satisfied

there is nothing
as written

the moment, the written moment, movement

it is upon the zigzag instant

the vast loudly
it's the mud or something in upon the last

a question of the whole?

thrown above us each
the illuminated round
of the bright sky

behind and beneath
foaming
the risen sea

Lawrence Upton is a solo and collaborative poet; a sound & graphic artist & performer; and occasional story-writer.