Bush Tucker by John Charles Ryan

(after reading Ginsberg)

soften your palate with an amuse-bouche fine finger food grilled to burst-in-your-mouth goodness, yummy!

knife and fork ticking
the china, slice them, spice them bardi grubs cooked in hot ash or raw with a sprinkle

of blood root zest
those steaming gooey insides sliding down your throat like oysters next for hors d’oeuvres marinated orchid bulbs with macrozamia nuts translucent slivers layered on doily-sized yabgeti cakes, slathered in tart finger lime sauce a slow cook stew of tubers for your entrée gotten from the ground with my bleeding hands: kara starchy white

as an Old World potato the fringe lily tjunguri with flecks of cypress stem and if there’s room for the main course

roasted wild yam
with the flaccid leaves of spinarchy saltbush in a béarnaise sauce of emu egg and sour mistletoe fruit nyilla-nyilla for dessert eat quondong pie slathered in rooty syrup of the Christmas Tree or drizzled in a brine

of amber wandoo nectar red-eyed wattle seed ground and sparged
like black pepper come on people

eat your bushtucker.
